The difference between visionary thinkers and the masses lies in an unwavering commitment to excellence - a relentless pursuit of perfection. In today's world, quality has emerged as the paramount battlefield. It's a daily combat waged under immense pressure, surrounded by those of lesser ambition. And it's a fight that must be waged everyday, under pressure, in the midst of people with less vision. It's a fight Arvind wages well.

Building businesses through technology leadership

September 2, 2016, Tom worked with Arvind but on different teams

Arvind possess a number of rare and prized traits that make him exceptionally effective in his work. First, his is able to sift through mountains of data and quickly categorize and reduce complexity to a manageable level. Second, he has a very rare gift for zeroing in on the handful of most important insights that provide the directional clarity needed for strategic thinking. But most critically, he is able to work with very diverse teams, across skill levels, organizational boundaries and cultures, and bring the collective intellect of the team together to produce outstanding work. I highly recommend him in the realm of strategy and look forward to partnering with him in the future.
